Human T-Cell Clones | SpringerLink

Abstract. Techniques for generating human T-cell clones (TCCs) were first described nearly two decades ago (1, 2). This was a direct consequence of the discovery of T-cell growth factor and the subsequent ability to propagate T-cells over extended periods. Early on, numerous publications in immunology indicated an apparently unlimited growth.

Production of Primary Human CD4+ T Cell Lines and Clones

Tetramer staining of CD4+ T cells is a valuable technique in immunology for detecting rare auto-reactive T cells.

Generating clones or cell lines from auto-antigen tetramer positive CD4+ T cells allows further characterization and phenotyping of auto-reactive cells.

The identification of FVIII-specific TH 2 and TH 1/TH 2 cells in an inhibitor subject, and of TH 1 cells in a hemophilic subject without an inhibitor, is consistent with an earlier report describing polyclonal CD4+ T-cell responses to FVIII by Hu et al. 11 In another study, hemophilia A mice that were treated with anti-CD3 to prevent inhibitors showed a shift in antigen-specific cytokine

Human T Cell Clones: A New Approach to Immune Regulation

Most complex biological systems, such as enzyme pathways, are effectively controlled near the beginning of the process. There is increasing evidence that the same is true for the immune system.

T cell - Wikipedia

A T cell, or T lymphocyte, is a type of lymphocyte (a subtype of white blood cell) that plays a central role in cell-mediated immunity. T cells can be distinguished from other lymphocytes, such as B cells and natural killer cells, by the presence of a T-cell receptor on the cell surface.
